MAKE FIGHT ON STAPLES.

Allen Sympathizers May Oppose Him as Successor to Buchanan.

Pulaski, Va., April 16.—According to general report, the Allen case is to ping its part in the selection by the next Legislature of a judge of the Supreme Court of Appeals to succeed Judge John A. Buchanan. Some of the Allen sympathizers are threatening the defeat of Judge Walter R. Staples, of Roanoke, one of the men prominently mentioned, because of what they say was bias on his missing ladge Staples, who needless over the Cor-because of what they say was bias on his part against the Carroll men.

Judge Staples, who presides over the Corporation Court of Roanoke, went to Hillsville the morning after the tragedy at the request of the Governor, at a time when no one knew what fresh dangers he might face and opened court here, re-establishing order. He was then favorably, in the public eye.

But he refused to join in the petition for commutation of sentence for Floyd and Claude Swanson Allen. Friends of the Allens also say that after the last trial of Sidna, when he was merely found guilty of manglaughter. Judge Staples did. not thank the Jury for its attention to public business, as he had one with all the other Juries, and this is taken to indicate his position.

Plans of Young Couple Frustrated by Late Arrival of Train.

Lynchburg, Va., April 16.—Love laughs at locksmiths, but not at a belated Southern train, and all because the Memphis Special bound for Bristol, was late yesterday, a real elopement was nipped in the bud. Had the train not been forty minutes late Parson Burroughs would have tied the knot that would have made pretty sixteen-year-old Miss Annie Martin the bride of Earle Norf-singer.

Woman Accused of Poisoning Husband in Staunton Jail.

Staunton, Va. April 16.—Nothing new developed yesterday in the case of Mrs. Namie Bridge, of Basic City, who is accused of having administered a fatal dose of strychniae to her husband in cream tarts that were served to him as a part of Sunday's dinner. Until the case of Albert Worth has been disposed of Attorney Charles Curry will not be at liberty to resume his efforts to have the wife released.

Mrs. Bridge was greatly cheered yesterday by another visit from her little daughter. Virginia, who came to Staunton on the afternoon train. The child spent the right here with her aught and will visit her mother again to-day. While hardly realizing the true seriousness of her mother's position, the child apparently understands that great trouble has come into the little home, and she seems to want to do all that she can to help. All three of the little none appear to the more than the natural affection of children for their mother, this circumstance seemingly furnishing further proof that the Bridges lived happily as a family.

Now that Mrs. Bridges is in prison it is believed that persons who might have withheld important information while she was at liherty will tell whatever they may know that would help the Commonwealth in establishing its charge of wilful homicide. Frequently in the past, it is said, it has been demonstrated that people talk more freely after a suspected person has been incare-rated than hefore. Just what progress the prosecuting forces have made in their investigation since the arrest on Saturday last cannot be learned.

STRANGE PLAN TO GET MONEY. Man Claiming to Be Son of Jack Allen Exposed in Roanoke.

Roanoke, Va., April 16.-A stranger, tall and lank, and having every appearance of oke during the past several days begging alms and drinks from the free-hearted Allen sympathizers of this city.

He claimed to be a son of Jack Allen, and He claimed to be a son of Jack Allen, and carries papers which he exhibits to show the correctness of his claim. His plan was to enter a saloon or other place and when a discussion would arise as to the Allens he would "hutt" in by telling that he is a son of Jack Allen, and how he had gone to Richmond to see Governor Mann in behalf of his uncle and cousin. Floyd and Claude Allen, and how by remaining there he had become stranded and was now making his way back to his home in Carroll.

He would talk glibly of the mountain county tragedy, seemingty being well posted to men who did not happen to know the situation.

He is said to have soaked a good many free-hearted Roanokers of 5 small sums of money, ranging from 10 cents to $1, and it is hard to tell how many free drinks he was given over the counters of the many Roanoke saloons.

His little game was blocked on Saturday

The Impostor received a stinging rebuke when J. W. Mabrey asked him the name of his brother who was drowned at Washington and Lee University while studying i there. He became confused and finally blurted out that he had not heard of his brother drowning, as though the happening was of recent occurrence. It will be remembered that a son of Jack Allen was drowned while at a law school some two or three years ago.
